Advance in Cotton and Wheat Prices, Wheat Exports for the Week-Speculation I i tle ' ffected by Boad Issue-Silve and the Japanese War-Busines Failures.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30 - Bradstreet's ton orrow will say: There is no general or radical improvement in business at the south, west or northwest, but in the central western states and particularly at some important cities in the middle and northwestern states and the reverse is true, a material gain in demand for many tions from some grades of lumber, but more particularly for cotton, wheat, oats and lard, improving prices of the first and lard, improving prices of the first two of which having had an influence for good. Decreases in prices of steel rails and hars, cartle, hogs. Indian corn and navel stores are reported, but quotations for structural iron, rice, whiskey, tobacco, pork, coffee and sugar are steady. It should be explained that rails are now held at $22, the lowest price on record, and billets and pig iron are respectively $201.50 below the English quotations.

At Chicago pig iron dealers are trying to ree an advance, but at St.

force an advance, but at St. Louis the market is without life and the price is Cottons are weaker since the cut made Cottons are weaker since the cut made by a New York house.

A stimulating influence of a purely statistical nature is the decrease of 2.005, 000 bushels of wheat in the quantity affoat for and in store in Europe last week, thus nearly, though not quite, overcoming the increase of 2.128.000 bushels of wheat revallable in the United States and Canada last week. Exports of wheat, and flour as wheat both courts amounted to 2.007.000 wheat, both coasts, amounted to 2 667,000 wheat, both coasts, amounted to 2.605,000 hushels this week, against 3,312,000 hushels lost week, 2.440,000 hushels in the week one year ago, 4.543,000 hushels in the last week of Newmber, 1892, and as compared with 5.662,000 hushels in that week of 1891. Speculation in the New York market displays little response to the success of the gold band issue, the influence of the large over subscription being overcome by the failure of foreign interest to obtain any considerable share of the new issue.

considerable share of the new issue. Silver is demoralized by sellers of eastern bills on the part of the Japanese govern-ment, coupled with fears that Japan may insist upon a war indemnity from China in gold and not in silver. There is an in-creased demand for funds at Chicago, nota-

ENGLISH ESTATES. You Will Save Time and Money by Letting Them Alone. "It always amuses me when some poor, deluded soul comes into my office and wants me to recover a vast English estate.

Thus spoke a well-known attorney.

"And why does it amuse you?"
"Because," said the lawyer, "there is so much folly in such cases. I suppose there are not a dozen families in Cincinnati who have not some tradition or another about a great inheritance over the water. For generation after generation these chimerical hopes are nursed, until finally some branch of the family, with more money than judgment, concludes to prosecute the claim. The result is nearly always the same. The victims come out of the experience with less money and more judgment.

Of course, there are rare instances in which Americans have recovered money from the estates of foreign ancestors. but in the great multitude of cases the rights of the claimants have been so long delayed or were so imaginary to begin with that it is only a waste of time and money to pursue them.

"I have handled many claims to fore in inheritances, and in just one case was there anything realized. After fighting for twelve years my client succeded in proving his interest in rome English property. The litigation, however, stirred up about two thousand other heirs, and after the estate was divided and the costs were id, my client got precisely four dolare and twenty cents.

"Let me give you a piece of advice. If your family are heirs to unteld millions in Europe don't breathe it to a soul. Get all the satisfaction you can out of the reflection that you ought to be in the house of lords and the master of es old ancestral home, but keep

STOPPING SEAL-POACHING.

The Fur Seal Will Soon Become as Plen-tiful as Ten Years Ago.

During the period before seal-shoot ing at sea became a regular business for dozens of vessels, the Alaska Commercial Co. owned for twenty years the lease of the fur seal islands, and was permitted by the government to take 100,000 seals each year, on which the company paid a revenue of $2 per skin, besides various extras. In 1890 peasonable staples having shown itself the North American Commercial Co. with a corresponding increase in volumes was the highest bidder for the lease, of goods distributed, or orders and secured the concession, with the for future deliveries, this independent of the stimulus to the trade num, paying therefor $10.22 per skin. lu certain lines due to approaching holi- But the high contracting parties reckdays, and in spite of the check to the oned without counting in the peacher, volume of general business within the who has so fearfully reduced the total e cek caused by Thanksgiving holiday. Thanks to this, and to the agreement between the United States and England that the fur seal 'must and shall be preserved," we may presently hope to see the species as abundant as it was ten years ago. Three times during the rule of the Russians, in 1805, 1822 and 1834, did this animal narrowly escape extermina-tion, but was saved each time by a similar cessation of hostilities for a period of years.

On July 20, 1893, it was calculated that there were in round numbers about 1,000,000 seals still surviving on the Pribylof islands.

Now that all seal-killing on the Pribylof islands, save for food, has been effectually stopped, five years more should witness such a marked increase in the total number that sealing operations may be resumed, and the annual crop of sacks, cloaks and other garments be gathered as heretofore, when seal-ponching was an infant in-

The Girl with Balloon Sleeves Disappointed the Gallery

A pert young woman came into a locai theater the other night and took a seat in the balcony. She was accompanied by two young men. She swaggered in and two or three of the people who sat near the seat she took looked at her curiously, the women remark-

She enjoyed it, too. She tossed her head and planced connetishly over her shoulder and then she pulled off the jacket.

She had on balloon sleeves. The jacket had pressed them down. She gave a little tug at one sleeve and pulled it up a couple of inches. Then she gave a similar tug at the other sleeve and pulled it up. Then somebody laughed. The girl pulled up the first sleeve a few sches more. She pulled up the other one. Two or three more people laughed. She looked around. One of her escorts whispered to her, but she shook her head angrily and gave one of the sleeves another This brought it up to the top of her head and a similar tug on the other sleeve put that in the same position. By this time her head resembled a perately and the puff towered far above her head. She got the other one into the same position. Then she turned around and scowled defiantly at her termenters and paid attention to the play.

Two or three times during the action she turned around and glanced about with a look that intimated that she knew she was all right and wanted the rest of the people in the balcony to understand it. When the play was over she waited in her seat to get her jacket on. One of her escorts held it up. Not a man in the balcony orgallery stirred. The girl patted one of her sleeves. 'Ah-h-h'" said the boys in the gallery. She patted the other one. "Here shouted a young man who had been leaning over the rail watching her with breathless interest, "quit that and make your jump." "Make what jump", asked the girl, indignantly. "Why," shouted the young man again, "hain't they no parachutes that goes with them balloons?"-Buffalo

SASH WEIGHTS. A Single Window May Have Nearly a Ton and a Hig Building Many Tons.

There are few articles of more common use than sask weights. A few windows are still made to be held up with catches, just as there are still key-winding watches; but, like the watches, their number is proportionstely so small as to be scarely approx niable. Such weights are made of iron and lead. The iron weights are commostly made of the scrap. Lead, being the heavier metal, is used in places where the weight space at command is not sufficient for iron counter-balances of the required weight. Sash weights are made in regular sizes, ranging from two pounds to tairty pounds, and under two pounds and over thirty they are made to order. from each weights of the regular sizes are always cast round; in sizes smaller or larger they are east square. Load weights are made both round and has been dead ago to stilling dead ffty to two hundred pounds are not remarkable. Weights are sometimes: made three hundred pounds and up to four hundred pounds. Thus there, might be on a single such window near is half a ton of wearbts, and on a term such window more than three-quarters of a ton. So perfectly balanced are seeights and windows that they can be ruised and lowered coulty. Beave seciglità are never pot la lergracia, nor they are in place. The such is weighted before the consterbulances are or dered, and the weights are made of precisely the right proportion.

The production of such weights depends upon the degree of activity in The total unusual consumption in this country is probably about one bundred and fifty thousand toes There are made in New York, Beach lyn and Jersey City, together, probably from ten thousand to diffeen thou sund time of such weights annually Not many New York said weights get more than one hundred and fifty mile away, except when sold for expect. Weights are sent with all suches exported to South America, Africa or wherever they may go
